Lagoa Pearl and Barra Nova Pearl Eco-Nature Resorts’ eco golf course has taken every environmental design into consideration to harmonise with the existing ecology, to protect plant species and biodiversity, as well as to incorporate as many natural features and areas in the golf course design as possible.

Gold Tee Golf International (GTG), founded by American golf course architect Dan A. Blankenship, is designing the first, 9-hole eco golf course in the area for Lagoa Pearl and Barra Nova Pearl Eco-Nature Resorts. GTG Brazil specializes in creating eco golf courses that integrate natural, protected areas.

This spectacular eco golf course, with its fully equipped golf course academy, will be included in international golf course listings.
Salvador de Bahia is a tropical city in a country so vast that it encompasses everything from exotic beaches to rainforests. Salvador was the first capital of Brazil and holds the title of Brazil’s oldest city. In the oldest part of town, one can explore the seaport and the buildings nestled into the mountainside.

However, if you are seeking total relaxation, a beach is always a short stroll away. If you fancy a cold drink, the drink of choice is caipirinha. You can also take a car ferry out into The Bay of All Saints “Baia de Todos os Santos” and travel to discover many more miles of sandy shores on Itaparica Island.
Ilhéus is a major city situated in the eastern coastal region of Bahia, Brazil, 430 km south of Salvador, the state's capital. The city was originally founded in 1534 as Vila de São Jorge dos Ilhéus. Today, it is known as one of the most important tourism centres of Brazil's northeast.

Deputado Luís Eduardo Magalhães International Airport is located in Salvador de Bahia. Daily, direct flights from the U.S. and Europe are approximately 7 hours in duration. Once in Bahia, a 40-minute domestic connection flight will take you to Ilhéus.
